

Vocational Rehabilitation Research and Training Center on

Demand-Side Strategies

Research activities include:

- The Alabama Business Intelligence Study: Integration of Labor Market Data and Trends in the ADRS Dashboard
- The Vermont Progressive Employment Model: Investigation of a Dual Customer Approach with Four SVRAs
- The Nebraska Middle Skill Certificate Study: Expanding Training Options to Meet Demand for Middle Skill Workers in Healthcare and Other Industry Sectors
- National Survey of State VR Agencies: Demand-Side Strategies
- Index and Case Studies of Demand-Side Strategies and Dual Customer Practices
- VR Outcomes and State Level Labor Needs: Secondary Data Analysis

Training and technical assistance activities include:

- Topical communities of practice
- Intensive on-site or distance/on-demand TTA
- Custom data analysis and evaluation support

www.vr-rrtc.org/demandside

The Institute for Community Inclusion

with its project partners

- Alabama Department of Rehabilitation Services
- Nebraska Vocational Rehabilitation
- Vermont Division of Vocational Rehabilitation
- New England Council

Questions? Contact Susan Foley
susan.foley@umb.edu

The VR-RRTC on Demand-Side Strategies is a project of the Institute for Community Inclusion at UMass Boston, funded by NIDRR grant #H133B120002

